

ESCCA 2017

Cytometry at the crossroads of cultures

The ESCCA 2017 Conference will be held in Thessaloniki, Greece, from Sunday 24 - Wednesday 27 September 2017. The Conference will take place in the Porto Palace Conference Centre & Hotel, housed in a former cigar factory built in 1913 that came back to life in 2005 after an extended, careful restoration.

An ambitious program has been developed. Famous speakers and experts will guide you through up to date cytometry knowledge and information and will offer you invaluable tools to perform your everyday clinical as well as research work.

Some programme highlights:

- The highly popular Education programmes: Advanced Hematology-Oncology, Clinical Diagnostic Cytometry (limited places!) and Advanced Immunology. Register soon to secure your place, for these two programmes the number of places is limited!
- Keynote lectures on 2016 WHO updates on acute leukemias and mature lymphoid malignancies, by Mike Borowitz (Baltimore, USA) and Andy Rawstron (Leeds, UK).
- Plenary sessions on PNH guidelines, DNA analysis by FC, translational Research including FC, leukemic stem cells, quality control, normal and malignant mast cells, eosinophilias, standardization and harmonization.
- Interactive session during which interesting cases will be reviewed through interactive voting via your mobile phone: initial differential diagnosis based on CBC and morphology; presentation of flow cytometry data; possible diagnosis or possible cytogenetics suspected; presentation of the diagnostic data and re-voting on the diagnostic options, plus review of the answers.
- Session jointly organised with the Hellenic Cytometry Society and the Hellenic Society of Haematology focused on immunotherapy of haematological malignancies.

The ESCCA Scientific Committee invites you to present your work at the Conference! The 3 best oral abstracts will be selected for plenary presentation, one of which will be eligible for the ESCCA Best Oral Award. The 6 best poster abstracts will also be given the opportunity to give a short plenary presentation. In addition, on-site a poster will be selected for the Best Poster Award.
